

Gogo Launches Expanded Cockpit and Datalink Services

November 16, 2015

New capabilities extend Gogo's position as a complete, "nose-to-tail" communications provider in the business aviation market

LAS VEGAS, Nov. 16, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- [NBAA 2015] --Gogo Inc. (NASDAQ: GOGO), the leading provider of wireless in-flight connectivity and entertainment solutions to the global aero market, announces the availability of an expanded suite of cockpit and datalink services for its business aviation customers from Honeywell's Global Data Center (GDC).

The additional services include Inmarsat Classic Aero (voice and data services) along with a variety of flight planning, datalink, graphical cockpit and weather information, flight following and concierge services.

John Wade, Gogo Business Aviation's executive vice president and general manager, said, "We're pleased to debut this additional suite of GDC services and offer Gogo customers the convenience of single-source activation, support and unified monthly billing."

Gogo is unique in that it offers one of the business aviation market's widest selections of in-flight voice and data services, which now include Gogo Biz, SwiftBroadband, Jet ConneX, Classic Aero, Swift64, Iridium, terrestrial 3G and Gogo Cloud (automated content delivery).

Michael Edmonds, Honeywell Aerospace Services Vice President, added "Honeywell's continued mission is to innovate our on-board and portable solutions to reduce the work load for flight crews and maintainers of aircraft. We are proud to partner with Gogo to expand the availability of these services to more users."

Today's announcement is part of a larger initiative at Gogo Business Aviation as the company continues to expand its voice and data airtime services. The company offers a full range of easy-to-understand plans along with a suite of tools and support services that help customers monitor and manage their monthly usage. Special discounts are offered for bundled services and customers that operate multiple aircraft.
